Gulf oil gusher finally capped

Violently churning cloud of oil and gas thinned, tapered off to a few puffs — then there was nothing Wary Gulf Coast residents express joy mixed with skepticism

BP finally choked off the flow of oil into the Gulf of Mexico on Thursday — 85 days, 16 hours, 25 minutes and up to 697 million litres after the crisis unfolded.

To the relief of millions of people along the Gulf Coast, the big, billowing brown cloud of crude at the bottom of the sea disappeared from the underwater video feed for the first time since the disaster began in April, as BP closed the last of three openings in the 75-ton cap lowered onto the well.

But BP stopped far short of declaring victory over the biggest offshore oil spill in U.S. history and one of the nation's worst environmental disasters, a catastrophe that has killed wildlife and threatened the livelihoods of fishermen, restaurateurs, and oil industry workers.

Now begins a waiting period in which engineers will monitor pressure gauges and watch for signs of leaks elsewhere in the well. The biggest risk: Pressure could fracture the well. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ombudsman to look into eco tax

- Special response team to conduct 'thorough assessment' to see if investigation is needed
- Both Conservatives and NDP want fee, slapped onto items by Liberals July 1, scrapped

Ontario's ombudsman will look into the province's controversial eco fee to see if an investigation is needed after receiving several complaints.

The New Democrats asked him to investigate the fees and potential abuses of the program, which has caught many consumers by surprise.

In a letter to the NDP, ombudsman Andre Marin says his office received a number of individual complaints about the fees.

The fees — which range from a few cents to $6.66 — fund a recycling program that diverts potentially hazardous items, such as fire extinguishers, household cleaners and paint from Ontario's landfills.

"Enough is enough already. People deserve a break."
ONTARIO PC LEADER TIM HUDAK

But there was no public warning that the eco fee, which was first introduced in 2008, would be slapped on thousands of new items on July 1.

Progressive Conservative Leader Tim Hudak called the eco fee a "tax grab" that has caused "chaos at the cash register" as items are taxed inconsistently at different stores.

"It's yet another tax on the backs on Ontario families who are paying enough as it is," he said.

NDP critic Paul Miller said families are already "hammered" by taxes, and don't need an eco-tax when municipal recycling programs are already in place.

"This is really hard on people with fixed incomes, and it's hard on single moms who have to work at three jobs to maintain a living," he said.

Auto insurance rates to drop — just a bit

Ontario rates jumped nearly 12 per cent in the first quarter of 2010, says insurance quote firm Kanetix

After three consecutive years of increases, basic auto insurance rates will soon fall for some Ontario drivers — but not enough to compensate for the increases of previous years.

The provincial regulator announced Thursday that rates in the province will decrease an average of one per cent starting this September.

The change will affect motorists who are taking out new policies or renewing their current ones. Costs will depend on where consumers live, the type of car they drive and other risk factors.

The last time rates fell in the province was four years ago. Since then, prices have increased each year. Last year was the largest average jump at 8.77 per cent.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

2009 changes

- Government changes implemented last year are driving down rates, said a spokesman for the Ministry of Finance.
- Those changes give consumers lower minimum coverage, and let them opt-in to higher coverage if they want it.
- The minimum required rehabilitation coverage used to be $100,000. The government reduced that to $50,000, and allows consumers to purchase $100,000 or $1-million options if they wish.

8% The cuts announced Thursday will range from 0.01 per cent to more than eight per cent, depending on the insurance firm.

Reserve says landfill dump dirtying water

A southwestern Ontario First Nation says a landfill used by the City of Toronto is threatening the community's water supply.

Toronto purchased the Green Lane landfill near St. Thomas, Ont., in April 2007.

Chief Patrick Waddilove says the accelerated use of the landfill is negatively impacting the health of Munsee-Delaware Nation residents, who use untreated well water.

"Our people and our land have to be protected from the negative outcomes that the landfill poses," Waddilove said Wednesday in a release.

Police ID man who died after stabbing

Toronto police have identified a man who was fatally stabbed in the city's east end.

David Darcy, 37, of Toronto, died in hospital on Wednesday.

Police said the victim was seen getting out of a navy blue Ford Explorer early Wednesday morning, and then falling to the ground.

Officers responding to the call found the man with trauma to his body, and later found a possible crime scene in the Danforth Road and Midland Avenue area.

Anthony Wong, 29, of Brampton, and Sharmake Abdi, 26, are wanted on first-degree murder charges.

Police said the men are considered armed and dangerous.

MPP objects to rate cut for solar power

$100K

Some farmers have invested up to $100,000 in solar technology, according to Tory MPP Bill Murdoch.

A decision by the Ontario Power Authority to change the rules surrounding solar power production is not sitting well with a Progressive Conservative member of the legislature.

During the Canada Day weekend, the authority quietly announced the rate being paid to some producers would be slashed to 58 cents from 80 cents per kilowatt hour.

Bill Murdoch, who represents Bruce-Grey-Owen Sound, says many farmers who have invested in solar technology are going to be hurt by the reduction.

But Energy Minister Brad Duguid points out that those who already have contracts will continue to get the 80-cent rate.

Duguid says the new rate applies only to new ground-mounted systems, and those planning roof-mounted installations will still get 80 cents per kilowatt hour.

Duguid says the program would have become unsustainable if the original price structure had been maintained.

Due to the lower installation cost of ground-mounted systems, Duguid said profit margins under the 80-cent payment were in the 25 to 30 per cent range.

"A profit margin in the 10 to 11 per cent range ... is what the program was based on," he said.

Duguid said he doesn't anticipate the lower rate will discourage applications to the program.

"The rate of return is actually very generous even under the new proposed tariff."

Murdoch said the rate reduction proves the Liberal government does not care about rural Ontario.

▶ Jarvis Street on Thursday, a day before the changes begin to remove the alternating lane to create bike lanes on either side in Toronto.

Work begins on Jarvis bike lane

Rocco Rossi restates his intention Thursday to take bike lanes off Jarvis if he's elected mayor Says not every street can accommodate every user

It was a decision that some believe helped set the table for this year's transportation-focused city elections and proved a turning point for Toronto's cycling community.

With the installation of bike lanes on Jarvis Street, beginning Friday, motorists and cyclists will be able to gauge the impact of last year's hard-fought battle to remove the reversible centre lane in favour of bikes.

Partial road closures and lane reductions between Queen and Charles streets through the week of July 26 will inevitably stoke the anger of motorists who waged a loud battle against the scheme.

The paint and the dismantling of the signals over the centre lane will only cost about $65,000.

But Daniel Egan, Toronto's manager of pedestrian and cycling infrastructure, says the 2009 controversy over the bike lanes "was overblown."

"It was pitched as a war against cars — quite frankly it's going to be a four-lane arterial road like every other street downtown. That (reversible) centre lane did cause a lot of confusion," he said.

Once people have had a chance to get used to the new lanes in the fall, the city will be assessing the impact on bike and car traffic, said Egan.

Man charged after graveyard sex assault

Police say tips from public aided in capture of the accused • Investigators still looking for public's help

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Russell Kirkpatrick

A man charged with attempted murder in the sexual attack of a woman in a cemetery this week in Toronto appeared in court Thursday with a slew of cuts and scratches on his head and face and blood on his prison jumpsuit.

Russell Kirkpatrick, 44, of Toronto, also charged with aggravated sexual assault, made his first court appearance Thursday morning after being arrested the day before.

He is "known to police," said Det.-Sgt. Corinne Bellon of the Toronto police sex crimes unit, but she wouldn't elaborate.

Police say a 61-year-old woman was attacked, beaten and sexually assaulted at the Pine Hills Cemetery on Monday while visiting a family gravesite.

She is still in hospital in stable condition with serious injuries, police said.

"It was, as all crimes in our unit, very shocking," Bellon said.

Kirkpatrick's lawyer, Tyler Smith, said outside court that his client has indicated he is in a great deal of physical pain.

"All that we know for sure is that he does have obvious visible injuries on his face and body, and there is plenty of blood on his (prison jumpsuit)," he said.

Smith said there were cuts and scratches on Kirkpatrick's face, ear, head and cheek, but that he can't say for certain how, when or where he got those injuries. He did say they looked fresh. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ford acted like a 'bully', officials say

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Mayoral candidate and high school football coach Rob Ford behaved like a "bully" in a 2004 controversy over his decision to welcome two students to his team who were deemed ineligible by the ruling sport body, say officials who dealt with the dispute.

Shortly after Ford became football coach at Don Bosco, controversy swirled about ineligible players who had transferred there from Etobicoke Collegiate.

The two players transferred after their grades were so low at Etobicoke Collegiate they were deemed ineligible to play there, says then-principal Ron Ellis.

Bulbous landmark may soon be retired

Next year could be dome's last

ARCHIVES OF ONTARIO

Ontario Place's redesign will likely spell the end of the cinesphere, at right.

For almost 40 years, its oversized golf-ball-like cinesphere has been a landmark along Toronto's waterfront.

But soon, that bulbous orb — and the water park and log ride that accompany it — will likely be no more.

Ontario Place is asking for architects and developers to submit ideas to completely revamp the 39-hectare waterfront property.

Construction on the new Ontario Place could start by the end of next summer — making it the last for the amusement park as many know it.

The park opened in 1970, with the purpose of being a tourist attraction that celebrated the achievements of Ontarians.

Spokesman Hugh Mansfield says developers will have a blank canvas for the new Ontario Place, and outdated facilities like the cinesphere will likely be retired.

It's hot, hot – so it must be Caribana

Yonge-Dundas jump-up launches festival ◗ A million visitors expected

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Salmon Childs, inventor of an electronic steel drum, performs at Caribana's launch.

Christina McCollin hasn't missed a Caribana since she moved to Toronto from Trinidad in 1972.

For her, the annual festival is a chance to go home without ever leaving the city.

"I love it — all of it. Everything from home is here."

McCollin "jumps up" with the Toronto Reveller's — the band hosted by NBA centre and Toronto native Jamaal Magloire.

On Thursday she stood at the front of the Yonge-Dundas Square stage with her 11-year-old granddaughter for the official launch of this year's Scotiabank Caribana.

The largest festival and parade of its kind in North America is expected to draw 1.2 million visitors to the city.

"With this type of weather, you can really pretend you're on the islands," said Nigel Joseph, head of Separate Tables caterers, who served up curried goat dinners and chicken rotis to the hungry masses.

"Caribana's about beautiful women, delicious food, great music. It's what Toronto needs right now."

Scarborough-Guildwood MPP Margaret Best, who was born in Jamaica, described the first Caribana parade — a much smaller affair in 1967 — as "a gift to the people of Canada on its centennial."

MEDIA

Sun TV loses some of its shine

Quebecor Media has apparently hit a snag in its effort to have its new 24 hour news network a must-carry channel on cable and satellite.

The broadcasting regulator has told Quebecor its proposed Sun TV news channel — dubbed Fox News North by rivals — won't be considered for a must-carry Category 1 licence for now.

That means carriers must offer the service but customers are free to choose it or not.

The CRTC says it announced in March it won't consider new Category 1 licences until October 2011, after the switchover of all TV signals to digital.

Sun TV is planning to start airing on Jan. 1.

"It's only labelling," said Serge Sasseville, Quebecor's VP of corporate affairs.

Mystery man fled from fire

Police are looking for a man witnesses say was pulled from a house that was destroyed by fire in Markham.

People in the area have said they heard an explosion before the fire broke out late Tuesday night.

But the man pulled to safety drove away before police arrived. Police say he may need medical attention.

He is described as white, 18 to 20 years old, with a slim build, shoulder-length, blond hair and was wearing a dark-coloured hooded sweatshirt.

On the road to a double dip?

Canadian exports still strong But economist says fragility elsewhere could push us back into recession

Double dip or temporary slip?

The global economy, and to a lesser extent Canada's, are pointing to a severe slowdown after a short burst of activity that normally happens during the initial stages of a recovery.

Almost all signals from around the world have been turning south in the last month, including a spate of fresh data Thursday showing Chinese growth slowing, although still high, and Canadian housing and U.S. manufacturing weakening after earlier strength.

The lone exception was Canada's manufacturing sector, where shipments grew 0.4 per cent in May, but almost all in autos and less than the consensus projection.

Family of four attacked

CRIME. Halton police say a home invasion in Burlington early Thursday may have mistakenly targeted the wrong home.

Police say four family members were asleep when three men broke in about 1 a.m. and threatened them with a handgun.

Sgt. Brian Carr says the father, in his 60s, was punched and kicked, and his son, in his 20s, was also beaten.

The son was taken to hospital for observation and released.

The other two family members were threatened but not hurt.

When the suspects didn't find what they were looking for, they ran off.

Pamela Anderson launches new campaign for animal-rights group

Pamela Anderson didn't do any dancing around when she was asked Thursday what she thought of the death of a fifth horse at the Calgary Stampede's renowned chuckwagon races.

"I think this is very cruel," the former Dancing With the Stars contestant said of the race, which is one of the main attractions at the Calgary event now underway. "I'm not a fan. I never have been."

The disdain of the former Home Improvement cast member echoes that of a growing number of animal welfare organizations, who say the event is cruel to animals.

Israel blocks Gaza-bound aid vessel

Libya's Gadhafi Foundation says ship left Greece containing 2,000 tons of food and medical supplies

A Libyan ship carrying aid for the impoverished Gaza Strip docked at an Egyptian port on Thursday after Israel's navy stopped it from reaching the blockaded Palestinian territory.

The director of the port of el-Arish, Gamal Abdel Maqsoud, said the diverted ship will unload its cargo and transfer it to the Red Crescent for delivery to Gaza by land across the Egyptian border.

A day earlier, Israeli missile ships stopped the aid vessel from reaching Hamas-ruled Gaza. Israel imposed the blockade after the Hamas overran the territory in June 2007.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Recent history

- Raid in May The standoff between Israel's navy and the crew of the aid vessel, the Amalthea, followed a botched Israeli raid on a Gaza-bound ship in May in which nine pro-Palestinian activists were killed.
- Outcry The international criticism over that raid forced Israel to ease its land blockade of the territory but it has maintained the naval embargo, insisting it is vital to keep weapons out of Hamas' hands.
- Aftermath Restrictions remain on materials like steel that Israel says could be used for military purposes.

Twin bombs leave at least 20 dead

Twin bombings killed at least 20 people outside a mosque in southeastern Iran on Thursday — including members of the powerful Revolutionary Guard.

Iran's official IRNA news agency quoted the deputy governor of the Sistan-Baluchistan province as saying the explosions tore through a crowd of Shiite worshippers near the main mosque in the provincial capital of Zahedan.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Settling a score?

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the bombings, but the Sistan-Baluchistan province is home to the Jundallah insurgency, a Sunni group.

- In June, Iran hanged the group's leader, Abdulhamid Rigi, after he was found guilty of attacking civilians, armed robbery, and engaging in a disinformation campaign against Iran.

Obama hails new reforms

President Barack Obama says the passage of a giant crackdown on the financial sector will provide long-deserved economic security to families and businesses.

He said the legislation ensures no more taxpayers bailouts and that Americans will not have to foot the bill for Wall Street's excesses. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

What's in it?

- The law will give the government new powers to break up companies that threaten the economy and create a new agency to guard consumers in their financial transactions, among many other changes.

Doctors slam 'perplexing' cut to census

Ideology has trumped evidence in the Tory government's decision to scrap the long-form census, Canada's leading medical journal says in a searing editorial released Thursday.

"With no consultation, the Harper government has undermined evidence-based decision-making in Canada," says the editorial in the prestigious Canadian Medical Association Journal. "For a government that made accountability a key priority, this policy choice is perplexing."

The criticism of the Conservatives' decision to scrap the mandatory long-form census in favour of a one-page voluntary survey is signed by editor-in-chief Paul Hebert and associate editor Marsha Cohen.

They say information from the long-form census frequently guides program planning and evaluation for federal departments and others — and it's an "essential tool" in the planning and delivery of health services.

"Without this information, Canada is stripped of an important resource to guide social interventions and investments to improve the health and well-being of Canadians."
CANADIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION JOURNAL EDITORIAL

"The census information allows us to relate the health and well-being of populations, even down to neighbourhoods," the editorial says. "Without it, regional institutions will lose the only accurate information about the populations they serve."

Clement ready to testify over census

Critics say making survey voluntary would diminish info from groups like Aboriginals and the poor Opponents also worry newer information won't match output from decades of mandatory census collection

Industry Minister Tony Clement says he is willing to testify before a House of Commons committee about his decision to scrap the mandatory long-form census.

Opposition parties have said they want to convene a committee this summer to question Clement about the change.

"It's up to the committee to decide whether they're meeting," he said. "If they call me before the committee … I'd be happy to be there."

A number of groups have criticized the move, which they say will hurt the quality of Canadian census data.

The federal privacy commissioner said Wednesday that it received only a few complaints about the census in the past decade. But Clement told reporters in Montreal that many Canadians have indeed complained the long-form census violates their privacy.

"Just in the past 48 hours I've received dozens and dozens of (letters from) Canadians who despite the adverse publicity … have come forward and said, 'We agree with your position,'" Clement said.

Clement said that while Canadians may not be complaining to the privacy commissioner, they have expressed their views to their MPs. He characterized the move to voluntary long-form completion as a compromise between the opposing camps.

"I am not saying it's every Canadian, but I am saying there are Canadians (who complained) and we should try to accommodate their concerns in a balanced way," he said.

Clement says he took the privacy concerns to Statistics Canada and asked they be incorporated into the next census.

"This is a methodology that Statistics Canada offered to us and if it's good enough for Statistics Canada, it should be good enough for some of our critics." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jewish, Evangelical groups urge feds to keep long survey

The main Jewish and Evangelical Christian organizations in Canada are urging the Conservative government to reverse its decision to scrap the long census.

The Canadian Jewish Congress and the Evangelical Fellowship of Canada have both written letters to underline their opposition to the elimination of the compulsory long census. The Jewish congress and the Evangelical fellowship say they rely on the census data to help target services and charitable activities in their religious communities.

Kandahar city under U.S. control

Number of NATO troops in province will hit 21,000 by summer's end, triple the number at this time last year

With little fanfare, Canada relinquished command of Kandahar city to the Americans on Thursday as an influx of U.S. troops changed the dynamics in the Afghan province that had been overseen by Canadians for four years.

The new command structure has the province carved up into three distinct brigade-sized formations, all of them reporting to NATO's southern command.

Canada will now command a brigade-sized unit south and west of the provincial capital, in the Dand, Daman and Panjwaii districts.

Panjwaii, in particular, has been a long-running problem in Canada's campaign against insurgent forces. The region is one of the birthplaces of the Taliban.

Two weeks ago, Canada turned over the Zhari and Arghandab districts to the U.S., and now Kandahar city is under American command as well.

The change of command was expected, and it happened quietly without pomp and ceremony.

Canada has more than 2,700 troops on the Afghanistan mission. They are expected to become less scattered across Kandahar province under the reorganization.

"It makes a lot of sense. We're able to concentrate force, concentrate focus and so we can deal in detail with the sort of tactical challenge in making sure that districts and villages within those districts start to rebound."

▶ Lt.-Col. Craig Dalton, chief of staff for Task Force Kandahar, tells reporters that Canada has given command of Kandahar city to the U.S. on Thursday.

Violence continues with kidnappings, deaths

Gunmen kidnapped five Health Ministry employees in Afghanistan's volatile Kandahar province while insurgents killed a district official elsewhere, reportedly on the orders of the Taliban supreme leader, officials said Thursday.

Also in the south, two U.S. service members were killed in a roadside bombing, NATO said. No more details were released.

Insurgent bombings, gunbattles, assassinations and abductions have been increasing this year as thousands of U.S. troops partnered with Afghan forces fan out in the militants' southern strongholds to try to wrest back control and establish effective local government.

The Taliban's campaign of fear is especially intense in Kandahar, where Afghan and international forces have been increasing their presence.

Honour for Toews irks soldier's family

▶ Cpl. Mike Seggie

The family of a Manitoba soldier killed in Afghanistan feels their son has been snubbed by a provincial government more enamoured of hometown hockey star Jonathan Toews than of military personnel who have been killed in action.

"They've put (Toews) in the same category as a hero, and a hero to me is someone who goes out and risks their life to save others or to make our country a better country," Shirley Seggie said Thursday.

Seggie's son, Cpl. Mike Seggie, died when his armoured vehicle was attacked Sept. 3, 2008, in the Zhari district. Like all other Manitobans who die in war, Seggie is automatically entitled to have a geographic feature such as a lake or hill named after him. Roughly 4,200 former service personnel have already received such recognition.

The Seggies are still waiting for that honour.

▶ Defiant Ken Masse poses at the home in Malartic, Que., that he refuses to leave.

He's sitting on a gold mine

Quebecer refuses to give up his home to a mining company He says he's refused offers of up to $4M

His home is surrounded by wasteland. His yard shakes from regular dynamite blasts.

Yet Ken Masse refuses to leave.

He is literally sitting on a gold mine.

And he's determined to stop a multibillion-dollar project aimed at exploiting one of the biggest gold reserves in Canada.

Masse's childhood abode in Malartic, Que., is all that stands in the way of production on what may be Canada's largest untapped gold deposit.

Osisko Mining has reached deals with 204 home owners. Ken Masse, the holdout, is the 205th in town.

Lucrative offers to buy him out and an expropriation order have failed to move him from his mother's 70-year-old house, which has been municipally evaluated at $14,000.

Masse, 35, claims his family has turned down offers of $100,000, $350,000 and $4 million from Osisko Mining Corp. for the property.

Masse says he's holding out on principle — for environmental concerns and the good of Malartic — not for a bigger pay day.

Ancient ship unearthed at 9-11 site

Experts race to analyze the delicate wood before it deteriorates in the air 45-kg anchor found nearby

A blast from the past has sailed into the World Trade Center site in New York City.

Experts are racing against time to excavate a 10-metre-long ship hull at the scene of the Sept. 11, 2001, attacks. They are rushing to analyze the vessel before the delicate wood, now exposed to air, begins to deteriorate.

In the 18th century, the site was part of the fill that extended lower Manhattan into the Hudson River. But the exact age of the ship isn't known.

Archeologist Molly McDonald says she wants to at least salvage some timbers. "We're mostly clearing it by hand because it's kind of fragile," she said.

Most of Europe feeling the heat

- Weather consistent with recent global heat wave
- State of emergency declared in 18 Russian provinces

It's so hot that women in bikinis are sunbathing in Moscow.

A heat wave across much of Europe is also causing crops to wither, forest fires to ignite and roads to melt, while refrigerators and fans are buckling in the searing sun.

From Russia's Ural Mountains to western Germany, a week of temperatures hovering stubbornly in the mid-30s C has baked northern parts of Europe, which are usually spared the heat of the Mediterranean — and forecasters are warning of more to come over the next week.

People were finding ways to beat the heat. There was the rare sight of women in bikinis sunbathing Thursday in Kolomenskoye Park in Moscow, while other people tried to cool off by soaking themselves in fountains and playing in water jets in the Russian capital, Belarus and other parts of Europe.

But it hasn't been all fun and games. The air conditioning systems on board the high-speed trains of Germany's national rail operator Deutsche Bahn broke down several times.

With locked windows, dozens of passengers were afflicted with heat exhaustion after spending hours trapped in temperatures of up to 50 C.

A batch of cooler air is scheduled to work its way slowly across France and into central Germany.

Worldwide, the average temperature in June was 16.2 C — 0.68 C warmer than average for the month of June, said the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in Washington.

This year has had the warmest average temperature for the January-June period on record — 12.2 C.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

African air

- The higher temperatures are being caused by an interaction between a zone of low pressure to the northwest of the United Kingdom and high pressure around the Mediterranean, British weather service spokesman Barry Gromett said. "What that does is to bring hot African air up over Europe," he said. "Temperatures are, in many places across Central and Eastern European, about 5 to 10 degrees (Celsius) warmer than you might expect."

Concern about generator plan

City council in Owen Sound will hear from the Canadian Nuclear Safety Commission about Bruce Power's plan to ship steam generators through the Great Lakes.

A commission spokesman will be at the regular council meeting on July 26.

Mayor Ruth Lovell Stanners says it will give council much needed information from an objective source about the safety of the plan.

Bruce Power will host a public meeting about the plan the very next night in Owen Sound.

Facebook page removed after PM's rebuke

British government official spoke to Facebook about page Facebook said creator removed page herself

A Facebook fan page that glorified a dead killer was removed by its creator Thursday after it drew sharp criticism from Britain's prime minister.

The Facebook site "R.I.P. Raoul Moat You Legend" had attracted 38,000 fans, scores of comments praising Moat — and outrage from politicians.

Facebook had refused to remove the page even after Prime Minister David Cameron had condemned it, saying there should be no public sympathy for a "callous murderer."

Despite the mounting pressure, Facebook said the page, while controversial, did not violate its rules. But its creator, Siobhan O'Dowd, took it down.

"To be honest, I didn't think this would be the kind of reaction I would get," O'Dowd said. "We don't condone what he did, as what he did was wrong. ... I feel sorry for the families, but he was still a human being at the end of the day."

Moat had just been released from a prison term for assault when he shot his ex-girlfriend, killed her new lover and seriously wounded a policeman earlier this month. After a week on the run, he took his own life last Friday when cornered by police. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. looking for right response

N. KOREA. A senior U.S. diplomat says the Obama administration is still looking at ways to respond to a finding that North Korea torpedoed a South Korean warship in March.

Asked about the possibility of additional U.S. sanctions, Assistant Secretary of State Kurt Campbell said Thursday the United States is considering a variety of options. He says Washington will co-ordinate with South Korea and others in the region.

Statute of limitations extended for the congregation's handling of alleged priestly abuse

The Vatican issued a revised set of in-house rules Thursday to respond to clerical sex abuse, targeting priests who molest the mentally disabled as well as children and priests who use child pornography, but making few substantive changes to existing practice.

The new rules make no mention of the need for bishops to report clerical sex abuse to police, provide no canonical sanctions for bishops who cover up for abusers and do not include any "one-strike and you're out" policy for pedophile priests as demanded by some victims.

As a result, they failed to satisfy victims' advocates, who said the revised rules amounted to little more than "administrative housekeeping" of existing practice when what was needed were bold new rules threatening bishops who fail to report molester priests.

The rules cover the canonical penalties and procedures used for the most grave crimes in the church, both sacramental and moral, and double the statute of limitations applied to them. One new element included lists the attempted ordination of women as a "grave crime" subject to the same set of procedures and punishments meted out for sex abuse.

That drew immediate criticism from women's ordination groups, who said making a moral equivalent between women priests and child rapists was offensive.

The Vatican's sex crimes prosecutor acknowledged it was "only a document," and didn't solve the problem of clerical abuse. He defended the lack of any mention of the need to report abuse to police, saying all Christians were required to obey civil laws.

Church report on child rights late: Official

The Vatican has failed to send the United Nations a report on child rights that is now almost 13 years overdue, the head of a UN panel has told The Associated Press.

A Vatican representative told the UN last year that the report was being "finalized as we speak."

Appearing before the UN's Human Rights Council in September, Hubertus Matheus Van Megen said "a paragraph will be dedicated to the problem of child abuse by Catholic clergy."

The Vatican has faced claims that it has covered up clerical sex abuse around the world, such as by not investigating allegations or transferring accused priests to other duties without punishing them.

LET RICH FAIL, TOO

The gap between rich and poor is widening to record levels. Some blame the "free market." But what if government was also a culprit?

Since 2002, 65 per cent of the wealth created in the United States ended up in the pockets of the richest one per cent, according to a study. Who are these filthy rich? Many of them work on Wall Street. For years, brokers gunned their roaring Maseratis at every corner, wore $3,000 suits around the office, and let the Bordeaux wine flow ... at lunch.

Then the stock market crashed. And it became clear that the emperor had no clothes. Most of these newly rich didn't deserve their Maseratis, nor their suits. Paper profits vanished, and now most banks are drowning in debt. CEOs took on too much risk, and failed.

"You failed? See you in the unemployment lines. The poor do not pay for the mistakes of the rich."

In a true free market, these cowboys would lose their fortunes. But the U.S. government chose to bail them out (here's a couple billion dollars; don't spend it all on one bonus). The State buries ordinary citizens — who earn just $40,000 a year — under a mountain of public debt to prevent Wall Street millionaires from having to sell a boat or two to pay the bills.

By bypassing the natural "clean-up" of the economy, the government perpetuates wealth disparity. Every crisis ends the same way: In the U.S. or elsewhere, governments save companies they consider "too big to fail," along with their shareholders.

You call this a free market?

A free market rewards success AND punishes failure. No bailouts at taxpayer expense. You failed? See you in the unemployment lines. The poor do not pay for the mistakes of the rich.

On Wall Street, JP Morgan recently hired 2,000 new graduates. Thanks to government support, Wall Street is thriving again. Is this a good thing? In 1972, five per cent of Harvard MBA graduates went to work in finance. Today, it's 45 per cent. Thousands of beautiful minds build complex algebraic models to sell refrigerators to Eskimos, instead of working on cleaner energy or curing cancer. The State must get out of the way and let this industry shrink in order to free up these brains.

If you scorn big banks, Wall Street or wealth disparities, you have good reason to do so. But don't blame "the free market." Better to blame this rigged system of ours in which the State meddles in everything, and takes from the poor to give to the rich.

iPhone 4 users wait for Apple to make its case

Company could address complaints about signal strength Friday Duct tape fix alleviates problem

Apple Inc. said it will hold a press conference Friday to discuss the latest iPhone model, which has been beset by complaints about its antenna.

On Monday, Consumer Reports said careful testing has confirmed user reports that holding the phone over a particular spot drastically reduces the signal strength it receives.

Apple hasn't commented on Consumer Reports' finding yet.

The phone went on sale three weeks ago in the U.S. — it's not yet available in Canada — and outsold previous iPhone launches in its first three days, with 1.7 million units sold.

Complaints about the signal strength soon followed.

$29

Company watchers are speculating that Apple Inc. may give iPhone 4 buyers its "Bumper" case, which normally costs $29 US, as a fix to alleviate signal strength problems.

Apple acknowledged that holding the phone in a certain way impeded the wireless signal somewhat, but said this happens with many other phones.

It said the real reason for the apparent big drop in signal strength was that it has been using an incorrect formula to convert signal strength into the bars displayed on the phone's screen.

Consumer Reports said it tested other phones, and said none of them had significant loss of signal strength when held.

SkyLink buying out Cargojet

Cargojet Income Fund is selling its 55 per cent stake in a regional air cargo business to minority owner SkyLink Express in return for a $3.2-million promissory note.

The Mississauga-based fund will record a one-time loss of $2 million on the transaction, which allows Cargojet to focus on national and international programs.

The agreement will give SkyLink Express full ownership of the regional transport business, which will operate under its name.

"Sustaining a profitable regional air cargo business has been especially challenging, as recent economic conditions have resulted in a decline in customer demand and lower yields," said president and CEO Ajay Virmani.

Cargojet transports air cargo across North America with a fleet of 13 aircraft.

GuestLogix reports big earnings

GuestLogix Inc., a provider of onboard retail technology to airlines, had soaring revenue and income in its fiscal second quarter.

The Toronto-based company said net income was $500,000 compared with $300,000 in the same year-ago period. Both figures represented less than a penny a share. Revenue shot up 39 per cent to $6.4 million from $4.6 million.

Newfoundland's grand dame of funny swaps her anchor gear for a much more complex wardrobe in the play Love, Loss, and What I Wore.

You're best known for your film and TV work, but you're a theatre person at heart. How does it feel to be back in your natural habitat?
It feels good. I just directed a new play by Gordon Pinsent in Grand Banks, N.L., so this last month I've been steeping in the theatre. I hadn't done anything in the theatre for so long, so it's quite wonderful to be back.

As someone who has also been a successful writer and director, what's it like to step into an actor's shoes again? Can you separate and become just a performer?
It's always hard to become just an actor, especially coming right off a directing job. We have this wonderful director, Karen Carpenter, and yesterday I found myself interrupting her a lot to add my ideas to the mix. I found it a bit difficult to just be soaking up direction … but toward the end I kind of got into it again. It's great.

Tell me about your new show.
It's very interesting and very touching, and at the same time a very funny piece. It's reminiscent of the Vagina Monologues, where they come into town and get some actors and personalities to go on stage and do a stage reading.

Can you relate to any of the characters?
In a way we're dismissive of how devoted many of us are to our closets. I was in the blood sweats before I came, not because I was late, or because there were so many things I had to take care of, but I thought, I'm not going to bring the right clothes and then my entire time in Toronto will be rotten. So I'm totally of that mind, even though I know that it's very shallow.

But even in my acting work, if I don't have the right costume, I don't get the character right. Many of us are very much emotionally connected to what we put on, to our daily costumes and what clothes mean to us. It's not as embarrassing as you might think to be dedicated to your raspberry sweater.

• Love, Loss, and What I Wore opens tonight at the Panasonic Theatre, 651 Yonge St.

A question of freedom

Letters & Tweets

TORONTO. A head scarf should pose no threat to anyone. Those who force women to wear it are those who should be punished, not the women who wear the hijab as part of their faith.

There is a security issue, but I see this as something that we should compromise on. I agree that everyone should have their face visible for government ID and such, but when simply going for a walk, there should be no restrictions on what anyone can wear.

If one law abolishes the veil, that is only the beginning of the invasion of religious rights. This is not only a response to the new French laws, but also a message to those who wish to see this law imposed in Canada.

I am Canadian. I was born in Ottawa and was been brought up in Canadian culture. I am a Muslim convert and, as such, I see both sides of the argument.

I wear the hijab proudly as a symbol of my faith. Many people see the veil as a way to control women. They argue that we live in a modern society where women are free.

That is true and for that I am grateful. But if we force women to take off their hijab or niqab, are we not as bad as those who force it upon them?

Metro Minute with Perfect Taste

Rita James makes one hell of a curry. Spicy, rich, and bursting with flavour, it's the best home-cooked meal you'll ever buy in a jar.

Unlike most store-bought sauces with their laundry list of ingredients, Perfect Taste products are entirely natural and preservative free — plus they're safe for those with any dairy, nut or wheat sensitivities.

Born in Kolkata, India, James says the secret lies in the right combination of spices — a recipe she's happy to share during one of her in-store appearances (including Friday at Summerhill Market at 466 Summerhill Ave.)

Make sure you try the caramelized onions.

Angie worth her Salt

▶ Angelina Jolie plays a CIA operative accused of being a Russian spy in Salt, opening next week.

She's been Lara Croft, she's been Mrs. Smith This time Angelina Jolie returns to the action game as a spy on the run Actress admits getting back to stunts was a tough challenge

NED EHRBAR
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LOS ANGELES

Angelina Jolie is used to having her words twisted around by magazines — even when those magazine are as esteemed as Vanity Fair. The magazine's latest issue features the iconic actress with the headline "Farewell, Angelina?" But she insists she isn't going anywhere.

"I'm not retiring. Everybody seems very excited about that, but not at this time," she tells Metro. "Basically I said something as simple as, 'In the years to come I'll be doing less film, I'm sure, and there are many other things to do in life.'"

Far from retiring, Jolie hits movie theatres next week with Salt, her first major action role since Wanted or Mr. And Mrs. Smith. Jolie stars as Evelyn Salt, a CIA operative who is accused of being a Russian spy. The Oscar-winning actress is the first to admit getting back into the stunt-heavy world took some adjustment — not that she had much time for it.

"It had been so long since I'd worked. I'd had babies, and it was just actually getting my boots back on and punching again," she says. "So we really crammed it in pretty fast. It was a lot of learning while doing."

Salt was originally about a male CIA agent — and set to star Tom Cruise — before Jolie came on board. In fact, the gender hadn't changed yet when she got the script.

"I got a call and they said, 'We've got a movie for you, and your name is Edwin and you have a wife.' I thought, very cool," Jolie remembers. But a part of Salt's old gender remains, as in one scene Jolie has to don a disguise as a male military officer, something she found fascinating — if time-consuming. "It was probably something like four hours, five hours. It was long," she says of the transformation process. "You do everything, you tape your breasts down, we had to put sweatpants on, all these things underneath to try to make me bulk up."

Women in action

Though she's been just as successful in dramas like A Mighty Heart and her Oscar-winning turn in Girl, Interrupted, Angelina Jolie still loves the action films that helped make her a star. She attributes part of that success to her ongoing professional relationship with stunt guru Simon Crane. Jolie admits, though, that it's hard finding good leading roles in action movies for women. "It was surprising when we looked into it that a woman hadn't done an action movie based in reality. They were always — the ones I've done — all in fantasy or some kind of science fiction. We did think if (Salt) worked it would be really nice for women."

A dream come true

Inception
Genre: Sci-FI/Thriller
Director: Christopher Nolan
Stars: Leonard DiCaprio, Ellen Page, Marion Cotillard
Hype and anticipation can sabotage even the best movies, but somehow Christopher Nolan's long-awaiting, mystery-shrouded Inception manages to not just survive all the expectations loaded onto it but surpass them.

It's easily the best film of the year so far. And as for all that mystery and radio silence, it's true that Inception works best when you go into it knowing as little as possible, but that doesn't mean knowing what it's about will ruin it.

Not that we're about to tell you everything that happens. Simply put, Inception follows Cobb (Leonardo DiCaprio), an expert in a form of corporate espionage that involves stealing information through people's dreams, as he mounts a seemingly impossible heist in the hopes of clearing his name and reuniting with his family. The fact that something this far-fetched seems perfectly plausible on screen is a testament to how good writer/director Nolan is.

Nolan can't take all the credit for this, as DiCaprio and the rest of the cast shine in their roles. Notable standouts are a dashing Thomas Hardy as quippy counterfeiter and Ellen Page as an architectural student — and the audience's best vantage point into the story.

Overall, the film delivers on all levels, mixing suspense, gunplay, romance, mind-bending effects and thought-provoking themes. Be ready to want to see it again.

Labour of Love

I Am Love
Genre: Drama
Director: Luca Guadagnino
Stars: Tilda Swinton
I Am Love is a labour of love from Tilda Swinton, Scotland's greatest contribution to independent cinema. It's is her most personal and accomplished film yet, conceived with old friend and collaborator Luca Guadagnino ten years ago.

Swinton's Emma is a Russian woman who was so thoroughly re-bred by her upper class Italian husband and his family that she no longer remembers her real name. She is a construct, but not consciously unhappy, floating along the way some trophy wives of her class do, and out of touch with herself.

During a strained dinner party, her son's new friend, a race car driver and chef, drops by with cake and spots her from across a hard-edged foyer. There is a suggestion of heat. Family events force her to examine life and she tentatively tries to change.

The film escapes soap opera dramatics, thanks to the delicate touch of the filmmaker and Swinton's masterful work.

● ANNE BRODIE

Restrepo
Genre: Documentary
Directors: Sebastian Junger, Tim Hetherington
Restrepo isn't an easy movie to watch. Then again, what would you expect from the most dangerous place on the planet?

Named after a military outpost in Afghanistan (which itself is dedicated to a fallen soldier), documentary filmmakers Sebastian Junger and Tim Hetherington mix raw footage of both extreme tension and acute boredom, providing a taut peek into the lives of a company trying to cope against an invisible enemy and Afghan elders less interested in political diplomacy than getting reimbursed for a cow that was killed in the turmoil.

While Restrepo lacks a strong narrative to anchor the mayhem, its intimate access still makes for a fascinating look at the anxiety of war.

● STEVE GOW

Mr. Nobody
Genre: Drama
Directors: Jaco Van Dormael
Stars: Jared Leto, Sarah Polley, Diane Kruger
●●●
Director Jaco Van Dormael returns to filmmaking for the first time since 1996 with this visually sumptuous and challenging film about the various possible lives one man could have led. Jared Leto stars as the titular blank slate and we see collection of possible realities based on the choices that he could have made in life (varying from a suburban drone married to a never-better Sarah Polley to a homeless man or a reflective 120-year-old).

Confusing? Yes, but in a rewarding way that leads to hours of movie-drunk discussion about "what it all means" afterwards. Ideal viewing for coffee shop philosophers everywhere.

● PHIL BROWN

Sweetgrass
Genre: Documentary
Directors: Ilisa Barbash, Lucien Castaing-Taylor
●●●●●
The brilliant Sweetgrass is a documentary that's also a hymn to tradition: the annual sheepherding drive in Montana's Beartooth Mountain range.

The directors spent three years in the company of cowboys and their flock, and the film evinces that intimacy.

It's hard not to marvel at the filmmakers' ability to provide multiple perspectives on the action even as they're in the middle of it with a single camera.

MERLIN'S MAGIC ENDURES

We can all conjure up an image of what Merlin the Magician looks like. He appears in dozens of movies, everything from the Disney cartoon Sword and the Sorcerer to Monty Python and the Holy Grail.

While we may not be able to nail the specifics — eye colour or height — the basics are easy — kindly old man with a long white beard, pointy hat, flowing robe. That's the likeness of the magician that has graced movies for decades — including this weekend's The Sorcerer's Apprentice starring Nicolas Cage as a magician and Jay Baruchel as his nerdy protege — but over the years there have been a number of interpretations of the character. Here's a look back:

Knightriders

George A. Romero brought the Arthurian legend forward to present day, and, of course, along with that comes a modern take on Merlin. Played by Brother Blue, an Ivy League trained actor and pastor, in his only onscreen credit, the wizard is a harmonica-playing hippie with butterflies painted on his face and forehead who spouts Woodstock inspired dialogue like, "Magic got to do with the soul, man. Only the soul's got destiny. It got wings. It can fly. That's magic. The body's just got a few minutes down here in the dirt with the rest of us." Far out, man.

Son of Dracula

A rock 'n' roll Merlin! A blend of horror, comedy, and music, Son of Dracula stars Ringo Starr as the wizard in a story that could only have emerged from the drug addled 1970s. The story scarcely makes sense, but it is fun to see Ringo and co-star Harry Nilsson (along with cameos by '70s rock legends John Bonham and Keith Moon). Luckily the movie does have an great gothic soundtrack (featuring Ringo, Peter Frampton and George Harrison) making it one of the rare movies which is actually more fun to listen to than to watch.

Cabinet of Curiosities, Miscellaneous

In The Spaceman and King Arthur (also known as Unidentified Flying Oddball), a loose adaptation of adaptation of Mark Twain's A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court, Merlin is presented against type as an evil character intent on dethroning Arthur. Also out of character is Merlin's Shop of Mystical Wonders, a horror film about a grandfather spinning tales for his grandson about Merlin's modern-day store. The wizard sells magical spells and curiosities meant to help people but usually turn out to have the opposite effect. In this movie "abracadabra" usually means "abracadaver."

▶ Taylor Swift will take questions from fans next Tuesday.

What's next for Swift?

Singer to answer questions about followup to hit album Fearless and more in live chat ◐ Grammy winner has millions of social media followers

Singer Taylor Swift will host a live chat to talk with fans about a new album.

Swift said she's always getting questions from fans via the Internet and social networking sites.

Next Tuesday she'll be providing answers about her followup to Fearless and more.

"I've gotten so many questions from fans — on Twitter, Facebook, MySpace, my website, everywhere really, and it's so incredible to see how excited everybody is about what's next," Swift said in an email to The Associated Press.

"I want them to be the first to know about my new music, and I can't wait to talk to everybody as directly as I can!"

Swift will host the chat from Nashville at 5 p.m. ET. Fans will be able to submit questions on Swift's website, social networking platforms and Ustream.tv.

Swift was recently ranked No. 3 on Forbes' list of the most powerful celebrities on social media. She has seven million Facebook friends and 3.6 million Twitter followers.

Fearless was the top-selling album of 2009 and netted Swift every major award, including four Grammys.

#60

Guaranteed better than all others they used say dozens of delighted users with full names and towns on the Bell website. Works by cleansing blood inside rather than attacking skin from the outside. Here are a few examples:

ACNE

Eczema Psoriasis Pimples Rashes

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

■ I had terrible Acne for 3 years and tried Benzoyl Peroxide, Proactiv, Aloe Vera and others. After 4 days taking the Bell natural product #60 it started to clear up my skin. My skin changed from terrible to beautiful. Mylene Theriault, 19, Sorel-Tracy, QC ■ In 2 days my son's face completely cleared up of acne. My son is 15 and suffered for 3 years. We used many products like laser, Clean Clear, Neem that did not work or burned his skin. Veronica Marden, Seminole, TX ■ Unbelievable acne free beautiful skin Last couple of years I had acne and tried every product like Murad, Proactiv and antibiotics. Results with #60 were unbelievable. Thanks for giving me beautiful skin and my self-esteem. Nelisa Royer, 28, Doral, FL ■ Within 6 days eczema cleared up completely. I believe #60 addresses the cause internally instead of the symptoms. Latifa Boutshik, 43, North York, ON ■ I had severe psoriasis over 95% of my body. Last 5 years I have stunned every doctor and dermatologist. I spent tons of money on remedies. After I got Bell #60, I've never seen anything work as fast in my life. Within 2 days I saw my skin clearing up. I'm speechless. It was inexpensive compared with what I spent before. Jessica Shantz, 25, Dawson Creek, BC ■ All statements made on the Bell website are sent by delighted users. All are real people. Most have listed phone numbers and can be called for advice. No money is paid to them. Their reward is the relief they are getting. All say #60 works within days not months, not years. It's more effective than what they used before. It is less expensive (some acne suppliers ship monthly and charge monthly, which may amount to large sums yearly). No side effects were reported on #60.

COLD SORES/VIRUSES

By Dr. C. Hammoud Ph.D.

Guaranteed to bring relief for viral infections or money refunded. For cold sores, colds, flus, bronchial and nasal infections. English scientists concluded that cold sore viruses may play a role in Alzheimer's Disease.

#42

■ Registered nurse wrote at the first sign of a cold or flu like symptoms I take Virux Viral Infections #42. It stops it right away. This product has been a great help. We know allopathic medicine does not have an answer for viruses, but nature does, using God's pharmacy is the way to go. Janna Dodds, 45, Clifford, ON ■ No more cold sores, no more colds. When I felt a cold coming on I started taking #42 and the cold stayed away. Another great bonus , my cold sores stopped completely Carrie Shoonbaert, 32, Deloraine, MB. ■ I got herpes and truly thought my life was over. After taking #42 as a preventive I have been outbreak free for 3 months. James Cassamajor, 25, Brooklyn, NY. ■ Fibromyalgia for 15 years, had relief after 4 weeks with #42. Robin Obemsawin, 50, Oneida, NY. Money-back guarantee.

SNORING? SLEEP APNEA?

Most older men and many women snore and have sleep apnea (gasping for air) :

To my surprise, after taking Bell Sleep & Apnea Relief #23 I really didn't snore or gasp for air anymore. I sleep through the night and feel rested and refreshed in the morning. Mark Wilson, 40, Hudson, NH ■ Sleep apnea capsules worked first night! For last 15 years I had sleep apnea and my doctor made me buy a C-Pap machine, which I could not use. Finally Bell #23 helped the first night and every night thereafter. Like a miracle. Unbelievable. Karen Braun, 67, Glace Bay, NS ■ For 20 years I was waking up frequently gasping for air. During the day I would start napping every time I would sit down, because I was tired. Since taking Bell #23 sleeping 6 hours is heaven. It made a substantial change in my life. Mary C. Myrick, 62, Jackson, MS ■ Many more true testimonials with full names and towns on the Bell website. Try this before you buy a breathing machine. Helps to sleep well. Results can be obtained by virtually everybody.

MY CUPCAKE WITH COURTNEY

Courtney Love isn't crazy. At least not the Courtney I've been talking to.

Since March, I've spent hours talking with her, both on the phone and face-to-face. Our talks have covered everything from how her new album, Nobody's Daughter, came to be to why her spelling and grammar is so bad when she posts messages to Twitter.

Our last conversation took place in her dressing room well after midnight last Saturday. Hole v2.0 had just played a pretty smokin' set in front of 2,000 adoring fans. Courtney seemed pleased with how the evening went. But then she looked over at a sheaf of papers on the counter and sighed.

"This is what I do. I work on this stuff for 14 hours a day. Then I play a show."

That "stuff" involves her mission to expose what she says is a massive fraud that's been perpetrated upon her and the estate of Kurt Cobain. Few people apparently take her seriously. No one, that is, except Courtney's Twitter Army who are helping to organize and codify pages and pages of evidence.

"I've been putting up documents, powers of attorney and legal papers that clearly show what's happened. How could that be my signature on a document signed in L.A. when I was in New York at the time? How could money be moved in Frances Bean's (her estranged daughter's) name to Geneva and Zurich without me knowing about it?"

She slumps in her chair and starts taking off the night's makeup. "I'm now doing FBI handwriting analysis to prove that those weren't my signatures." She goes on to explain how nine accountants and a bevy of lawyers all allegedly managed to divert money into unauthorized places like properties purchased on behalf of a variety of people allegedly named Cobain.

How much money? She quietly mentions a figure of $28 million. "It's probably more. Some of the people involved make Bernie Madoff look warm and fuzzy. I just wasn't good with money. And I had some serious problems at the time this was happening."

She picks up one of the pink frosted cupcakes I brought and takes a bite. The day before was her 46th birthday.

"I'm not crazy, even though people think I am. I'm going to see this through."

I've seen these documents. I believe her. I wish her well.

British support keeps act afloat

We Are Scientists have lived through a decade of messy changes in the music industry American band is more well-known in U.K. than at home

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
SCENE@METRONEWS.CA

A lot can happen in 10 years. Just ask We Are Scientists. When the Brooklyn-based band started playing in 2000 about 15 people attended their gigs. Now they're huge in England, they've played Glastonbury, they've gone from a trio to a duo and they've lived through the music industry's messy changes.

"We were the last band to get an old school style major label deal," says singer Keith Murray. "Now everyone is terrified all the time."

Well, not everyone. We are Scientists may not be a household name in America, but in England Murray gets recognized in bars. That's helped the band stay afloat in this uncertain music business.

"We keep ourselves going with revenue mostly from the U.K.," he says. "We are more than a break even band in the U.S., but we're not worried about whether we'll have enough money to survive."

A lot of American bands are big in the U.K., but, if you didn't know much about the group, you could mistake them for being British. They've charted well there, the NME writes about them as much as any English band, they had a TV show on MTV U.K. and their new studio drummer is Andy Burrows, from British darlings Razorlight.

Murray says their success was more of a right place at the right time thing than anything else. "We just fit in the mainstream then," he says. "They were playing Arctic Monkeys and Killers."

Their music has evolved over the years — they've gone from jangly dance rock to more lush, keyboard influenced sounds — but their latest, Barbara, harkens back to With Love and Squalor, their 2005 major label debut.

The record is filled with infectious dance pop tunes, think Franz Ferdinand or Arctic Monkeys, and even though the new new wave went out of style a few years ago, these songs would still fit in on any radio station playlist.

"The last record was the two of us and we wanted to expand our musical pallet," says Murray, explaining why this album sounds more like their '05 disc. "This one we recorded as a three piece band, and that's really why the record sounds like it does."

"We're a pretty frugal band. We're DIY not cause it's a philosophy we adhere too on some punk level — we like doing everything ourselves because this is a cool business to be in."

drummer's story

- In 2007, just a few days before We Are Scientists were to go on tour, their original drummer Michael Tapper quit the band.
- Tour drumming duties were handled by Gary Powell of Dirty Pretty Things and Adam Aaronson from The High Speed Scene, but they didn't have anyone to record their new record with.
- Keith Murray, the band's singer, says the idea was to have a revolving cast of drummer friends — that included Andy Burrows, Razorlight's timekeeper. But when Burrows quit his band he asked if he could join WAS and they said yes.

Hawkins laments loss of rock 'n' roll

Foo Fighters drummer has disdain for current recording practises New solo album showcases 1970s rock influences and features members of Queen

Technology helped the Foo Fighters' Taylor Hawkins record with two of his rock idols on his solo project, but the drummer doesn't think much about how it has impacted the music world on the whole.

Hawkins has a disdain for current recording practices, and blames it mostly on Pro Tools, the digital audio workstation software that's used by most artists.

"It's ruined music as far as I'm concerned, at least rock 'n' roll," Hawkins said. "It's great for dance music."

Hawkins' latest solo release, Red Light Fever, is far from the disco world. The album showcases Hawkins' 1970s rock influences. A highlight of the project for Hawkins was getting Queen guitarist Brian May and drummer Roger Taylor to play on the record. Though they didn't record in the same studio, they were able to collaborate by sending tracks back and forth over the Internet.

"It's one of the only good things the computer has done for music," he said.

It's not the 37-year-old's only lament about rock today. Hawkins has spent much of his summer playing the album on the road, mostly in Europe. Hawkins said overseas audiences have a special appreciation for rock that appears to have been lost in the U.S.

"America is tough for rock music," he said sadly. "Rock 'n' roll used to be the main music for the youth, and it's not so much anymore. It's hip-hop and stuff."

In Europe, his band is likely to play in larger venues. "Rock and roll is still a stronghold there," he said.

"I love Donna Summer and I love ABBA. I love late '70s disco. I love the Bee Gees. I just love that period of recording"
TAYLOR HAWKINS

"They seem to embrace rock 'n' roll musicians."

Red Light Fever, released, is the second album from Hawkins and the Coattail Riders. The album not only features Hawkins' on drums, but also as a frontman. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ American talk show duo Regis Philbin and Kelly Ripa of Live! with Regis and Kelly broadcasted from the waterfront in Charlottetown, P.E.I. this past week.

Kelly and Regis wrap up in PEI

Live! morning show hosts thank Canadians for their hospitality Duo gush over the island's lush scenery.

Regis Philbin and Kelly Ripa wrapped up nearly a week of shows from Prince Edward Island with a beach bash and many thanks for all the Canadian hospitality.

The hosts of Live! with Regis and Kelly began their final episode with a salute from two CF-18 fighter planes, which circled the cheering crowd.

Thousands have turned out for the duo's four special tapings, which took place over the course of two days on Charlottetown's Confederation Landing Park.

Throughout the visit, the morning duo gushed over the island's lush scenery and fresh seafood, with Ripa saying on Thursday's episode that she was already planning a return.

Guests for the final broadcast included Sex and the City hunk John Corbett, whose girlfriend Bo Derek was sitting in the front row.

> "Honest to God we really are taken by Prince Edward Island, and all of you for being so hospitable"
> REGIS PHILBIN, LIVE! HOST

24 star Elisha Cuthbert also brought NHL boyfriend Dion Phaneuf, and the pop band OneRepublic performed.

Tourism officials are hoping publicity from the shows — which aired Monday through Thursday on CTV — will lead to a boost in tourism. Earlier in the week, the province cracked the Top 10 Google searches in the United States.

The popular U.S. morning-show stars were to resume broadcasts from the show's home in New York on Friday.

Before leaving, Philbin said he was grateful for the warm welcome they received in Canada's smallest province.

"Honest to God we really are taken by Prince Edward Island, and all of you for being so hospitable," Philbin said to hoots from the audience.

"It's one of those places where Mark and I are planning our return trip before we leave," Ripa added, referring to her husband.

Thursday's episode included a final attempt to get the picky Philbin to eat fish — this time an oyster on a potato crostini and a fried clam slider with ketchup. He gamely downed them to the crowd's delight.

Gibson vs. Bale

Celebrity
They both had notorious outbursts, and now Christian Bale and Mel Gibson are facing off in cyberspace with their own mash-up video. It features excerpts from the recently releases Gibson phone tapes, and Bale's angry tirade on the Terminator set. We've included a link at metronews.ca/7thheaven, but be warned — the language is pretty graphic.

Hello Kitty

Pop Culture
Believe it or not, but everyone's favourite Japanese export is celebrating her 35th anniversary this year. Lady Gaga recently did a photo shoot wearing a Hello Kitty-inspired outfit for Bravo (it apparently features 50 pounds of crystals and you can watch a behind-the-scenes video on metronews.ca/scene). For those looking for a less blingy way of celebrating, Flik Flak will release a selection of brightly coloured Hello Kitty watches this falls.

DVD

Sci-fi remixes

Books
Blame the popularity of vampires for this one. It seems all the ghouls, ghosts and sci-fi mainstays are coming out of the literary closet. The newest lot to hit shelves include Android Karenina — where robots have joined Leo Tolstoy's classic novel — and Paul is Undead, which reinterprets The Beatles as the walking dead. Oh, and did we mention Yoko Ono is actually an eighth-level ninja!

Letterman has fun with Bristol & Levi

Talk show host got in hot water last time he went after Palin's daughter Johnston still on thin ice

David Letterman finds the Bristol Palin-Levi Johnston engagement announcement irresistible as monologue fodder.

But the late-night host, who ran afoul of the Palin family last year with a misfired joke, took it relatively easy on the young couple on Wednesday's Late Show.

Letterman joked that Johnston will arrive for the wedding tied to "Sarah Palin's pickup." He also wisecracked that Bristol Palin made the announcement on an "hour-long ESPN special," a reference to the channel's show on LeBron James.

Letterman's final Palin joke poked fun at himself. Last year, he apologized to the Palins for a ribald joke involving one of their daughters.

Cocktail mixers get a makeover

Spirits have gone premium. Bartenders have turned artisan. Even ice has become a little cooler.

So, it only makes sense that mixers are getting a makeover with upscale versions promising to bring chic cocktails to a fridge near you.

"Consumers just seem to get it immediately," says Jordan Silbert, founder of Q Tonic, an all-natural product introduced a few years ago.

Silbert got the idea to make a better mixer after drinking gin and tonics and realizing the premium gin had no business mingling with a mass-market product

A similar epiphany struck Dushan Zaric and Jason Kosmas, mixologists at New York's Employees Only bar who have just released two non-alcoholic mixers. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Try a Cold War thriller

The Friendship Trail on the Czech-Polish border is littered with the ghosts of its communist past.
But knowing its history just makes its present more breaktaking

PAUL BALDWIN
TRAVEL@METRONEWS.CA
METRO WORLD NEWS IN LONDON

"It still looks haunted by its previous life as a communist environmental disaster zone."

The summit of Sněžka, which straddles the Czech Polish border still looks haunted by its previous life as a communist environmental disaster zone. Acid rain created by the belching chimneys of countless industrial plants in Poland and Northern Bohemia wreaked havoc here.

Nature is fighting back, but the desolate trail which winds its way up the craggy sides of the mountain to a peak topped by sinister cold war installations still seems bare and threatening.

Even its name — The Friendship Trail — has wonderfully Stalinist doublethink overtones which Le Carre would have revelled in.

Because this 30km trail, which was a clandestine meeting place for Polish and Czech dissidents, is anything but friendly.

The Trail is a public footpath in the Karkonosze Mountains, which runs on both sides of the Czech-Polish border. The best place to start is to take a three hour bus ride from Prague through the Bohemian countryside, past various Soviet eyesores, to Pec pod Sněžkou, the country's main ski resort.

▶ Make new friends on the Friendship Trail.

From here join the Czech families making the ascent on the country's highest mountain. It's not an easy climb but there's a pub at the summit serving warm rum. Oddly there's also a Post Office and a church.

Rum downed, you can start the Trail proper. Red-toped border stones, with a large P chiselled on one side and large C on the other, meander across the border and back until, after about 10km, you'll drop down into the undeniably magical village of Malá Úpa. Unless you're a serious hiker you might like to take the bus back to your guest house about now.

Because on Day 2 you'll be covering a slightly tougher part of the Trail. And it's the part which, according to legend, is defended by a pipe-smoking giant called Krakenos.

Get up close and personal with sharks

Swimming with these gentle giants terrifying and peaceful all at once Take the plunge find get some face time with a whale shark

Everyone got excited when the six-metre shark, just below the surface of the water, started circling slowly under our little fibreglass boat and wouldn't leave.

What to do? Get in the water, of course.

"This is special," said our guide, Christina Colpitts, as three passengers from our boat eased into the tepid Sea of Cortez and swam carefully toward the creature to get a snorkel-eye view.

"We've had a lot of people who've gone on our trips and they've been down to Australia, they've been off of Belize and they've been all over the place and had yet to be able to snorkel with whale sharks," said Baja Airventures owner Kevin Warren. "Our last five years in a row, every one of our trips we saw them throughout the trip."

Whale sharks grow up to 12 metres but have very small teeth and aren't predatory. That means they won't try to eat you. Gentle giants, they gather each fall at Bahia de Los Angeles - almost halfway down the Baja Peninsula on the Sea of Cortez - to filter-feed on microscopic organisms called plankton.

Old Course sees new record set

McIlroy, 21, posts a 63 to give him lowest-ever score at a major

In the 137 years since the British Open first came to St. Andrews, the Old Course rarely has been such a pushover. Rarer still was the score Rory McIlroy delivered.

Whether it was the luck of the draw or his tantalizing talent really didn't matter.

In conditions so calm that not a hair on his considerable mop was out of place, McIlroy set off on an incredible run into the record book Thursday with a 9-under 63 that gave him a two-shot lead.

"Going out there this morning with no wind, you're never going to get St. Andrews playing any easier," McIlroy said.

It was just as easy for John Daly, a former champion at St. Andrews and now the ultimate long shot. He first energized the gallery by bashing tee shots and making enough birdies for a 66, matching his best score in the British Open.

And it was just as easy for Tiger Woods, who ran off three straight birdies late in his round for a 67.

There were 45 rounds in the 60s, 73 players broke par and the average score was under par — 71.75. Mike Weir of Bright's Grove, Ont., was among those who didn't get in on the action, firing a 73.

On the other hand, no one took advantage like McIlroy, a 21-year-old from Northern Ireland with a game beyond his years. His 63 tied the lowest score in any major, and it was only the second such score at St. Andrews.

Tiger Woods

It was the first time in eight rounds in an Open at St. Andrews that Tiger Woods was not atop the leaderboard at the end of a round.

- MOVE He made his move through the loop, then ended his string of three straight birdies on the par-5 14th.
- MISS Woods was moving closer to the lead until he badly pulled a four-foot par putt on the 17th, then missed a 10-foot birdie try on the last hole.
- STILL IN IT Woods won the last two times on the Old Course by a combined 13 shots, and his bid to become the first player with three claret jugs at the home of golf is still in the picture.

Rogers Centre rolls out grass for soccer giants

When Manchester United and Celtic leave the Rogers Centre after their exhibition soccer game Friday night, the playing surface won't be far behind them.

The domed stadium opened its doors to 18 tractor-trailer loads of sod Thursday to lay down a temporary grass field that will be returned from whence it came afterwards.

The sod for the Rogers Centre comes from Burford, about 100 kilometres southwest of Toronto. And that's where it's headed after the final whistle.

Missing stars

Manchester United has given Wayne Rooney, Michael Carrick, Patrice Evra, Nemanja Vidic and Ji-sung Par a month off after the World Cup.

The temporary field was slated to be completed by early evening Friday, about the time Manchester United arrived at its hotel. The English Premier League team's first North American stop was Chicago.

Celtic opened its North American tour with a 1-0 loss to the Philadelphia Union on Wednesday night.

Boyd making the most of his chance

Argos tailback rebounding nicely from year away from football

Cory Boyd is making the most of a new lease on his football life.

The six-foot-one, 214-pound tailback has registered consecutive 100-yard games to move atop the CFL's rushing race with 283 yards. More importantly, he's helped lead the Toronto Argonauts to two straight wins and top spot in the East Division standings.

Heady stuff for a player who was out of football last year after being released by both the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Denver Broncos and believed his playing days were over.

"I love the CFL, they actually give you a chance," said Boyd, 24. "If I was in the NFL I'd probably be on some team's practice squad right now or playing special teams.

"To come out here and be a starter and battle through all I've had to battle through and still be here with a great team in a new organization, you can't ask for much more."

1,000 During his college career at South Carolina, Boyd amassed 1,000 career yards rushing and receiving.

Boyd was selected in the seventh round, 238th overall, in the 2008 NFL draft by Tampa Bay.

The Buccaneers waived Boyd in July 2008 and put him on the season-ending injured reserve. He was released with an injury settlement a few months later.

Boyd then joined Denver in November 2008 but was ultimately waved by the Broncos at the end of March 2009.

Boyd missed the entire 2009 season before signing with Toronto last March.

'Must-win' game for Ticats

It's only the third game of the season but it's certainly an important one for Kevin Glenn and the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

The Ticats host the Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Ivor Wynne Stadium on Friday night (TSN, 7 p.m. ET). It will be the second meeting of the year between the two clubs as the Bombers earned a 49-29 home win in the season opener on July 2.

But more important than redemption for Hamilton is simply getting a win.

The Ticats, who finished second in the East Division last season with a 9-9 record, have dropped their opening two games of the 2010 campaign. Although it's still very early, Hamilton doesn't want to find itself falling too far behind its rivals.

"You don't say it, but it's one of those must-win games," Glenn said.

"We need to get this win."

Winnipeg dominated the season-opening game, rolling up 502 total offensive yards compared to 290 for Hamilton.

Quarterback Buck Pierce, in his first start for the Bombers, finished 17-of-25 passing for 291 yards with two TD strikes and also ran six times for 89 yards, including a 13-yard TD.

Edge of privacy and celebrity

- IndyCar star Dario Franchitti prefers not to discuss Hollywood wife
- Driver promoting Honda Indy Toronto race

NICK LAHAM/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Dario Franchitti celebrates a win with wife Ashley Judd last year in Toronto.

An invitation to interview Indy Racing League driver Dario Franchitti came with a friendly warning, an email explaining he would entertain any question under the sun except for those "related to his personal life — mainly his wife, Ashley Judd."

It is not that Franchitti is shy. He has discussed his views on racing with adult diapers on late-night television (they're not his style), along with a host of other personal topics, but the 37-year-old rarely parcels out information about his life with the renowned actor and Hollywood star.

"That's one of the things I've been quite clear on — I won't try to trade on my marriage to promote the sport, that's a no-no," Franchitti said. "Ashley comes to the races as a supporter of mine, and as my wife."

He was in Toronto on Thursday to promote the Honda Indy Toronto, a race he won for the second time last year. Franchitti's itinerary included a series of interviews, a photo-op with Celtic FC, his favourite soccer team, and another, more corporate event in the evening.

It is part of the routine for Franchitti, who has become an elder statesman on the IZOD IndyCar Series. He accepts the marketing and promotion as part of his job, and an integral part of building open-wheel racing back to its former glory in North America, but it can force him to guard his privacy.

So much is already known. Franchitti and Judd were introduced at a wedding reception more than a decade ago, a meeting orchestrated by late Canadian driver Greg Moore — who was one of Franchitti's best friends — and a fellow Canadian, actor Jason Priestley.

"She's an amazing, amazing supporter of what I do," Franchitti said.

"She's been through the ups and the downs, and she's been there every step."

Sunday's Honda Indy Toronto goes at 12:30 p.m. ET (TSN2, ABC).

Field of Play

SCOTT RUSSELL

YOU ALREADY KNOW: SPORT NEVER SLEEPS

The World Cup is over. You'd figure that all the devotees of big-time international sport would finally get a rest. Maybe they'd seize the chance to kick back and read a book or go for a swim in the lake or, at the very least, take a walk in the park.

No such luck. The field of human athletic endeavour is vast and without limits. Where there's a game to play, a ball to strike or an opponent to overcome, sport continues to dominate human conversation.

It's because the language of competition is universal. The sights and sounds of it arouse the senses like few other things.

So it is that the Calgary Stampede, complete with calf ropers and bull riders, appeals to those who love the rough and tumble carnival-like aspect of a cowboy against beast scenario.

At cycling's big daddy, the Tour de France, it's man against mountain and heck, there's even a Canadian named Ryder Hesjedal challenging for the lead. Not to mention the constant obsession with the drama of Lance Armstrong.

"The language of competition is universal. The sights and sounds of it arouse the senses like few other things."

Over in St. Andrews, Scotland, the 139th Open Championship beckons the world's best golfers to the birthplace of the game. Here wind and rain are ubiquitous and the rough is as high as an elephant's eye. Tiger Woods is in his element and his side story adds a twist to this year's edition.

Closer to home, automobiles will race through downtown streets at the Toronto Indy. These are men and women at the command of powerful machines who draw attention because of the noise and speed and most probably the potential for disaster. It can be thrilling even to the casual observer.

And in Moncton, N.B., youth rises — potential is about to be revealed. More than 2,000 athletes from all over the globe are gathering for the IAAF World Junior Track and Field Championships. This is the meet that spawned the likes of Usain Bolt and Perdita Felicien. These are the future Olympic stars running and jumping in our own backyard.

The television never gets turned off. The web continues to stream it "live." There is always the score to keep. We are never lacking a spectacle to behold.

If you're a fan you know that sport never sleeps — and neither do you.

▶ Paul Pierce is staying in Boston.

Pierce not ready to break up Big Three in Boston

Paul Pierce never planned to leave Boston when he opted out of the final year of his contract. He just wanted to help the Celtics find him some teammates.

That decision became more important when a new challenge emerged to the Celtics' hopes of repeating as Eastern Conference champions: The Miami Heat, with LeBron James, Chris Bosh and Dwyane Wade.

"I never thought once about leaving the Celtics," Pierce said Thursday when the team announced he had signed a four-year deal. "I wanted this team to get better, knowing we didn't win a championship. ... Also, I wanted to ensure that I had a chance to retire as a Celtic."

Since losing the NBA final in seven games to the Los Angeles Lakers, Boston re-signed Ray Allen, who will be 35 on Tuesday, to a two-year contract and gave free agent centre-forward Jermaine O'Neal, 31, a two-year deal. Kevin Garnett, 34, also has two years left on his contract. Those three, plus Pierce, 32, have a total of 54 seasons of NBA experience.

At times, the Celtics seemed too old to go far in the playoffs, especially when they went 27-27 in their last 54 games last season. But they surprised the doubters.

They overcame that underdog status, so retaining it doesn't bother Pierce one bit.

"We relished that role this year," Pierce said in a conference call. "It really doesn't matter. You've got to show it on the court."

On paper, he said, the Heat are the team to beat in the East.

"You've got to expect going into the season, when you've got the calibre of players they have that they're going to definitely be the favourite along with the Lakers," he said.

Pierce's old contract would have paid him $21.51 million US next season. The Celtics didn't disclose the value of the new deal, agreed to last week, but the Boston Herald said it was $61 million.

Pitchers ahead of hitters on Jays depth chart

- Young starting pitchers form backbone of the team
- Addition of Escobar adds to core group of hitters

The Toronto Blue Jays made great developmental progress with their young starting staff during the first half of the season and they can only hope their position players make similar strides to close out 2010.

Brett Cecil leads the team with eight wins while fellow sophomore lefty Ricky Romero logged a team-high 116⅓ innings. Brandon Morrow is beginning to resemble a future ace while Shaun Marcum's stint on the DL has been the only blip in his return from elbow surgery.

But while a pitching staff for years to come is starting to take shape, the lineup of the future has been slower in coming. Veterans like Vernon Wells, John Buck, Jose Bautista and the now-traded Alex Gonzalez have put up big numbers while core players like Aaron Hill and Adam Lind have struggled badly. Also, none of the team's top hitting prospects has yet to break through.

That's why strengthening the team positionally is becoming a point of emphasis for general manager Alex Anthopoulos and his ever-busy staff.

"I think it's fair to say that's probably the area we feel right now we'd like to focus on a little bit more," he said. "I think young controllable starters have certainly been the backbone of this team and we need to continue to try and solidify and get more core players on the diamond."

Wednesday's trade of Gonzalez and two prospects to Atlanta for fellow shortstop Yunel Escobar and minor-league lefty Jo-Jo Reyes was a step in that direction.

Escobar joins Hill, Lind, Travis Snider, Wells and Bautista as the only current position players who project into the mid- to long-term plans for the Blue Jays.

Assets in abundance

More organizational parts may arrive before the July 31 non-waiver trade deadline, as Jays GM Alex Anthopoulos has several strong chips to play with in relievers Scott Downs, Kevin Gregg (who has club options for next year or the next two seasons) and Jason Frasor, plus catcher John Buck and first baseman Lyle Overbay, all potential free agents.

But anyone who thinks Anthopoulos will scorch the ground just to get rid of them hasn't been paying attention. It looks like all four players will qualify for draft pick compensation should they sign elsewhere, so only an asset of significance will pry them away since the Blue Jays are under no financial pressure to deal them. 14 Number of home runs Jays prospect Brett Wallace has hit in triple-A Las Vegas this year. The first baseman is batting .296 with 45 RBIs in 81 games.

Today's horoscope

For today's crossword answers and for expanded horoscopes, go to metronews.ca

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 You tend to get what you want in the end but if you are too ruthless you could turn people against you. That may not worry you now but what about later when you need others' assistance?

♉ Taurus April 23-May 21 You are strongly advised to examine the details of what you are working on very closely indeed today. Your mind seems to be wandering a bit of late and if you overlook something important it will be costly.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 You seem to be looking in every direction but the one you want to go. Why is that? Most likely it's because you fear what you might see.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 Both at home and at work it is of the utmost importance that you are pleasant to partners and colleagues today. Why? Because you are going to need their support.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 Strength of mind is one of your great positives and you will need to be strong today. You know you won't change anything by ranting and raving, so just do what has to be done. .

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 You are under a lot of pressure at the moment but Mars in your sign gives you the power to deal with any challenge that comes your way. But don't forget your Virgo common sense — you'll need plenty of that.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 You may be tempted to ignore an inconvenient truth but deep down you know the matter will have to be faced sooner or later, and the longer you leave it the harder it will be.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 You have cluttered up your life with too many possessions and too many people you really don't need. You cannot afford to be sentimental.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 It might be wise to agree with someone in a position of power so you stay in their good books, but it's not really you is it? It would be more honest, and more fun, to point out why their reasoning is faulty. It's your choice.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 What happens over the next few days will provide you with the means to make a name for yourself, even if your efforts have fallen short in the past.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 You must do the right thing today, even if it means you lose out financially. You have a moral obligation to help a friend or colleague who depends on you.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20 Be realistic about what you can hope to achieve, but not so realistic that you have to give up on your dream. Your creativity is governed by one simple rule: If you can think it you can do it, though it may take some time. SALLY BROMPTON
